THE FNB COMMUNITY BANK INVESTS IN PATOKA PARK PAVILION

The FNB Community Bank and First Vandalia Corp. is proud to announce a $35,000 donation to support the construction of a new pavilion at Patoka Park. In recognition of this contribution, the bank will receive exclusive naming rights to the pavilion, further reinforcing FNB's ongoing commitment to community development and local investment.

“On behalf of myself, the Village Board, and the entire Patoka community, thank you to The FNB Community Bank for your generous donation of $35,000 toward the Patoka Park Pavilion project,” stated Stacy Hood, Patoka Village Board President. “Your support is making a meaningful difference in our community, and we are truly grateful for your commitment to helping us create a space that will serve families, friends, and future generations. Your generosity reflects the very best of community partnership, and we deeply appreciate it.”

The pavilion project will provide a welcoming space for various community events, such as the Labor Day Fall Festival, birthday parties, family reunions, community yard sales, and more. The pavilion is scheduled to be fully completed this spring and will provide long-term benefits to the residents of Patoka.

“We wanted to be a part of this, and look forward to participating in the community,” stated Steve Henna, FNB Community Bank President & CEO. “The village has been great in working with us and we wanted to do the same for them.”

The $35,000 contribution has helped fund the demolition of the existing pavilion, construction costs, and materials, ensuring the pavilion is accessible, durable, and beneficial to the entire community.

Chartered in 1865, The FNB Community Bank is the sixth oldest bank in Illinois. In June 2019, the bank converted to a state charter and changed its name from the First National Bank to The FNB Community Bank. Along with its main office on Gallatin Street and the Banker Blvd. Branch in Vandalia, FNB has locations in Greenville, Ramsey, Patoka and Mulberry Grove. Member FDIC.
